Alaskans to Urge Secretary Mineta to FIX IT FIRST

Groups to Push for Current Infrastructure Fixes, not Knik Bridge

A coalition of Alaskan groups and concerned citizens will demonstrate their opposition to the proposed Knik Arm Crossing

Tuesday, July 5th at 11:45am in front of the Hotel Captain Cook, Anchorage.

US Secretary of Transportation Norman Mineta will be addressing a gathering of Commonwealth North at noon. "We want to let Secretary Mineta know that Alaskans want to meet our current needs and maintain what we have, rather than to dump all our transportation money into a boondoggle bridge," stated AkPIRG's Steve Cleary. "Who is going to pay a $10 toll to take a bridge that won't cut commuting time? We need real transit solutions," Cleary continued
